

Borlaug's Army

Undergraduate Application

Feed the world.

Make a difference.

As a part of an outreach and engagement initiative called Borlaug's Army, the American Phytopathological Society offers one year of free membership to all undergraduates engaged in a recognized plant pathology/plant protection REU (Research Experience for Undergraduates) or Internship program. To qualify, applicants should fill out the "student" section of this form, which should then be completed by their department chair, or by the chair of the department in which the internship was served.
