General Publication Policies

Manuscripts may be submitted for consideration of publication in PHYTOPATHOLOGY by members of The American Phytopathological Society and by nonmembers. Membership in the Society is not a prerequisite for publication in the journal, but page charges are higher for nonmembers than for members.

Submission of manuscripts: Submit all new manuscripts to The American Phytopathological Society, Editorial Office, 3340 Pilot Knob Road, St. Paul, MN 55121. Do not submit new manuscripts to the Editor-in-Chief. Submission implies nonsubmission elsewhere and (if accepted) no publication elsewhere in the same form without consent.

Content: Contributions should fall into the following categories: 1) Original research on some aspect of plant pathology or brief accounts of techniques or phytopathological history of general importance. Subject matter is not a criterion for judging the merit of an article for publication in PHYTOPATHOLOGY. It is, however, the author's duty to establish relevancy to the science of plant pathology. 2) Review papers developing a new concept, hypothesis, theory, or other integration of plant pathology. 3) Letters to the Editor: These may explain, amplify, or otherwise comment upon research published in the journal or elsewhere. Letters to the editor are reviewed in the same manner as other contributions, and the Editorial Board reserves the right to reject or to publish letters of rebuttal when appropriate. If possible, the opportunity will be provided for a letter of rebuttal to appear in the same issue as the letter to which it is directed.

Page charges: Because of the high cost of publishing articles in PHYTOPATHOLOGY, payment of page charges is mandatory. Page charges are subject to change and will not be finalized until an author receives galley proofs. Current charges are $80 per printed page for members of the Society and $150 per printed page for nonmembers. Authors who submit manuscripts satisfactorily prepared for OCR-electronic processing will receive a decrease of $20 per printed page. An author will be billed after the article is printed in the journal. A letter confirming that the author or the author's institution, company, or research sponsor will honor the page charges must accompany each manuscript submitted.

Separates: No free copies supplied. Reprints will be available at a nominal cost; an estimate will be sent with proof. Orders for reprints must be received within the year after publication of an article.

For style details, follow: Author's Guide for Manuscript Preparation, PHYTOPATHOLOGY 75:5-7, 1985. Authors are urged to have one or more colleagues read the manuscript critically prior to submission.

Use of material from this journal: PHYTOPATHOLOGY is copyrighted, and those who wish to use illustrations or data appearing in PHYTOPATHOLOGY in other publications should obtain the permission from The American Phytopathological Society and the author of the paper and provide a line crediting PHYTOPATHOLOGY as the source of the material.

Authorization to photocopy copyrighted material for internal or personal use, or the internal or personal use of specific clients, is granted by The American Phytopathological Society for libraries and other users registered with the Copyright Clearance Center (CCC) Transactional Reporting Service, provided that the base fee of $3.00 per copy of an article is paid directly to CCC, 21 Congress St., Salem, MA 01970. 0031-949X/85 $3.00 + .00

PHYTOPATHOLOGY for June (631-748) was issued 14 June 1985

APS Press Notice to Authors

APS Press, the book publishing program of The American Phytopathological Society, has become a major publisher in plant pathology and related areas. With more than 50 books in print and the number growing, APS Press is soliciting additional books from prospective authors and editors. APS Press offers the benefits of commitment to the discipline and needs of plant pathology; of an international audience that includes APS members, libraries, other institutions, book buyers, and readers of the APS journals; and, where applicable, of a competitive royalty policy.

If you are considering publication of a book in a plant pathological or related area, you are encouraged to submit a publication proposal to APS Press. For more information, contact: George N. Agrios, APS Press Editor-in-Chief, Department of Plant Pathology, Fernald Hall, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003; 413/545-2280.
